This newly built villa in Los Flamingos, Benahavís, sits in a secure gated community on an elevated plot, giving it wide open views of the coast and hills. One of only four homes of its kind, it combines modern architecture with plenty of outdoor space. The clean lines of the design are matched with large terraces—some covered so they can be used in any season—and a striking infinity pool that seems to flow into the landscape.

Inside, the layout is open and bright, with the living, dining, and kitchen areas blending together and extending onto the terraces through large sliding doors. The interiors are finished in a soft, neutral style that feels fresh and calm. Six bedrooms provide generous space for family and guests.

For wellness and leisure, the home includes a private spa with sauna and Turkish bath, a fully equipped gym, and a versatile room that can serve as a cinema or games space. This villa brings together modern comfort, views, and privacy, offering a relaxed way of living in one of the Costa del Sol's most desirable locations.
